Ochopee is a standout cultivar that carries notes from all its parents. It has some funk from Headband/Stardawg, and gets notes of leather, Earth, and hash from the pollen donor, Pure Afghan. As with the flavor, there's a sweetness that hits with a sharp complexity; almost bitter. It makes you wonder what your nose is smelling.

Skunk, ammonia, and funk are paired with a sharp sweetness, making this cultivar taste extremely pleasant yet hard to describe without experiencing it for yourself. One puff is sure to bring a smile to your face and make you lean in for another.

Expect a heavy hitter with this one. This one comes through the head and makes it heavy (along with your eyelids)! Consumers have reported a deep relaxing comfort following this experience.
